- Ideo.org Field Guide and Design Kit: IDEO.org is a nonprofit design studio which offers tools for putting Human-Centered Design methods into practice within the social sector and community-engaged spaces. This includes their Field Guide to Human-Centered Design and their Design Kit. Our Design Thinking for SNAP-Ed team used several human-centered design methods from IDEO.org during our work on this project.

- National Equity Project: The National Equity Project is an organization focused on transforming systems through leadership training and consulting for educators and other leaders, to promote equitable, resilient and liberatory environments. The National Equity Project offers webinars and trainings around liberatory design, systems change, and building equitable environments such as the Liberatory Design Card Deck.
 - Liberatory Design: Liberatory Design is the result of a collaboration between Tania Anaissie, David Clifford, Susie Wise, and the National Equity Project. Liberatory Design is a problem-solving approach and practice that centers equity and offers resources and tools for best practice in designing for liberation.

- Creative Reaction Lab: Creative Reaction Lab's mission is to educate, train, and challenge Black and Latinx youth to become leaders designing healthy and racially equitable communities. Creative Reaction Lab offers a framework for Equity-Centered Community Design including a field guide and workshops for communities, institutions, and organizations engaged in community-based work to design for inclusive and equitable outcomes.
 - An Incomplete List of Resources for the Equity-Centered Designer: This resource on medium.com is a compilation of exercises, frameworks, and thoughts to advance design-related work within systems that perpetuate oppression.

- Stanford d.school: The Stanford d.school offers programs, trainings, and resources for educators, nonprofit leaders, and others in social sectors on designing for social change including the d.school Starter Kit (crash course in design thinking).
 - Public Library: The Stanford d.school Public Library are digital collections to help advance you beyond the basics of design thinking.
- Adapting Design Thinking Methods and Best Practices to a Virtual Environment: Lessons Learned and Future Considerations: This medium.com article, written by members of our Design Thinking for SNAP-Ed team, provides suggestions and examples from our own work around adapting design thinking/human-centered design methods to virtual spaces and offers implications for practice in virtual spaces and/or during the current global public health pandemic and working with persons with lived experience.
